Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Mahler Rosé Families: The Mahler family includes the children of Bernard and Marie Mahler, their spouses, and their children. The children of Bernard and Marie include: Isidor, Gustav, Ernst, Leopoldine, Karl, Rudolf, Alois (Louis), Justine (Ernestine), Arnold, Friedrich (Fritz), Alfred, Emma Marie Eleanor, and Konrad Mahler. Most notably, Gustav Mahler, was the eldest surviving Mahler sibling and was also a famed conductor and composer in the 19th and 20th centuries.

The Rosé family includes the children of Herman and Maria Rosé, their spouses, and their children. The children of Herman and Maria include: Alexander, Eduard, Arnold Josef, and Berthold Rosé. Both Alexander and Arnold were members of the well-known 19th and 20th century musical ensemble, The Rosé Quartet.

Several relationships and marriages connected these families. Gustav Mahler and Arnold Rosé were musical contemporaries and friends. In 1898, Emma Marie Eleanor Mahler married Eduard Rosé. And in 1902, Justine Mahler married Arnold Josef Rosé. As a result of Justine and Arnold's union, they had two children. Their eldest child was named Alfred Rosé. Alfred Rosé established himself as a musician, musical therapist, professor, and composer. He eventually immigrated to London, Ontario in 1948. The connections between the Mahler and Rosé families resulted in the records, files, letters, photographs, memorabilia, and artifacts that make up The Gustav Mahler-Alfred Rosé Collection.

For more information on The Gustav Mahler-Alfred Rosé Collection see "The Gustav Mahler-Alfred Rosé Collection: An Inventory" and "The Mahler Family Letters" by Stephen McClatchie.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of extensive personal correspondence, concert documents, scores, manuscripts, recognition, primary publications, secondary publications, university papers, photographs, recordings, memorabilia and artifacts mainly relating to the private and professional lives of Gustav Mahler, Alfred Rosé, Arnold Rosé, Alma Rosé, Bruno Walter, Justine Rosé, and Maria Rosé. Other material relating to Alma Mahler-Werfel, Marie Mahler, Otto Mahler, Maria Rosé, Albine Adler, Dorothy Beswick Hetherington, Lorraine Busby, Jacob Dont, Martha Freud, R.A. Loederer, Nora Nathan, Richard Newman, Richard Strauss, and Arturo Toscanini are included. Also included are materials in the collection whose connection is unclear.

Custodial History

The content of what today constitutes the GMAR Collection has been received from several sources over many decades. The first acquisition took place in 1971, when the University purchased a collection of Mahler letters from Alfred Rose. The majority of the Collection was received from Maria Rose through a series of donations. As a result of a memorandum of understanding negotiated in 1981, her gift was physically received 1983. However, under the terms of the 1983 donation agreement, legal title to the portions of the donation took place in three separate phases, in 1983, 1989 and 1995. A further donation was received from Maria Rose in 1997, with the balance of her collection received through her estate in 1999. The Collection has also been augmented by the purchase of items from Sotheby's in New York in 1984 and by donations of a small number of additional items received from various sources, the most recent of which arriving in 1996. For more information about the origins of the GMAR Collection, see Stephen McClatchie's The Mahler family letters (2005).

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Mahler, Gustav: Gustav Mahler was born July 7, 1860 in the City of Jihlava to Bernard Mahler and Marie Mahler-Herrmann. Gustav was educated as a child in Jihlava and Prague. In 1875, Gustav entered the Conservatory of Vienna and eventually the University of Vienna. As the oldest of the many Mahler siblings to survive to adulthood, he eventually became the provider and caregiver of his siblings when his parents passed away in 1889. Gustav Mahler rose in fame and notoriety as he established himself as one of the leading conductors of his generation. He held conducting posts in many opera houses in Europe and was appointed the director of the Vienna Court Opera (Hofoper) in 1897. Throughout his career he collaborated and communicated with other largely known musical contemporaries. On March 9, 1902 Gustav Mahler and Alma Schindler were married in Vienna, Austria. Gustav and Alma had two children, Maria Anna and Anna Justine Mahler. Mahler continued to conduct and compose in New York and Europe until late in his life. Gustav Mahler passed away on May 18, 1911 in Vienna, Austria. His musical compositions gained popularity after his death and his symphonies have stood the test of time.

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Rosé, Alfred: Alfred Eduard Emmerich Rosé was born in Vienna, Austria on December 11, 1902 to violinist Arnold Josef and Justine Ernestine Rosé. He was also known as Alfi and Alferle to his younger sister Alma Maria Rosé. Alfred received his education by attending the Doblinger Gymnasium in Vienna and by studying composition under Arnold Schoenberg. He held conducting positions at the Vienna State Opera, Burgtheater, and in various institutions in Berlin. In 1928, he toured America with the Rosé Quartet, including his father and uncle, as their pianist. On October 5, 1933, Alfred married Maria Caroline Schmutzer in Vienna. They lived together in Vienna until 1938. In 1938, Maria and Alfred fled Austria first to England then to the United States in order to avoid Nazi occupation. They arrived in New York and shortly after, moved to Cincinnati where both Alfred and Maria found work. In 1945 they immigrated to London, Ontario, Canada where Alfred had accepted a faculty position at the University of Western Ontario (UWO). While in London, Ontario, Alfred became a naturalized Canadian, taught at the university, and led many musical productions and musical therapy sessions throughout the city. In 1973, Alfred retired from UWO after 26 years of teaching. He passed away on May 7, 1975 in London, Ontario. One month later, Maria Rosé accepted a posthumous doctorate degree from UWO in honour of Alfred's extensive work at the university.

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Rosé, Arnold: Arnold Josef Rosé was born Arnold Rosenblum on October 24, 1863 in Jassy, now Romania. He was married to Justine Mahler on March 10, 1902 and together they had two children, Alfred Eduard Rosé and Alma Maria Rosé. He established his professional career as a violinist, professor, Concertmaster of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, and leader and member of the Rosé Quartet. In 1939, Arnold fled to London, England with his daughter Alma to escape Nazi occupation. His son, Alfred, attempted to bring his father to the United States up until Arnold's death on August 25, 1946 in London, England.

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Rosé, Alma: Alma Maria Rosé was born in Vienna, Austria on November 3, 1906 to violinist Arnold Josef Rosé and Justine Mahler Rosé. Under the tutelage of her father, Alma grew to become an established and successful violinist. In 1932 she founded the women's ensemble, Die Wiener Walzermädeln (The Waltzing Girls of Vienna) which performed tours throughout Europe. In 1939 she fled Nazi occupied Germany to London with her father Arnold Rosé. Later that year, with their resources dwindling, she returned to Nazi occupied Netherlands to work. While in the Netherlands she frequently corresponded with her father and brother. As she attempted to escape Switzerland she was arrested in 1942 by the Gestapo. She was sent to an internment camp in Drancy and eventually transferred to a concentration camp in Auschwitz in 1943. While in Auschwitz, Alma led and performed with the Mädchenorchester von Auschwitz (Girls Orchestra of Auschwitz). She died suddenly on April 4, 1944 in a concentration camp in Auschwitz-Birkenau.

For more biographical information on Alma Rosé see "Alma Rosé: Vienna to Auschwitz" written by Richard Newman.

Biographical Sketch/Administrative History

Schmutzer Rosé, Maria: Maria Caroline Schmutzer was born in Vienna, Austria on July 5, 1909 to artist Ferdinand and poetress Alice Schmutzer. As a child, Maria attended piano lessons and developed a passion for music. She completed her grade school studies and attended Housekeeping school. As a young woman she completed an apprenticeship and worked as a seamstress. On October 5, 1933 Maria married musician Alfred Rosé in Vienna. Maria and Alfred lived in Vienna until 1938. In 1938, Maria and Alfred fled Austria first to England then to the United States in order to avoid Nazi occupation. They arrived in New York and shortly after, moved to Cincinnati where both Alfred and Maria found work. In 1945 they immigrated to London, Ontario, Canada where Alfred had accepted a faculty position at the University of Western Ontario (UWO). Maria combined her passion for music and writing and wrote several drafts, reports, and manuscripts relating to musicians. On May 7, 1975 Alfred Rosé passed away. Maria remained a dedicated wife and accepted her husband's posthumous doctorate degree from UWO on June 3, 1975. Maria and Alfred kept the treasures of the Gustav Mahler-Alfred Rosé collection at their home in London, Ontario. Maria donated the collection to UWO from 1983 until her passing in 1999. Maria Schmutzer Rosé passed away at the age of 89 in London, Ontario, Canada on May 5, 1999.
